

I have VERY strong feelings about this issue. I DO NOT want to be forced to listen to people jabbering incessantly on their cell phone on an airline flight. It is bad enough to be surrounded by cell phone conversations in the gate area. On my last flight, in the gate area, there were three different conversations (loud!) going on all around me. There were no other available seats I could move to. But at least there in the terminal, I was free to get up and leave the area. On an airplane, I would have no such choice! It is a verbal assault on common courtesy and decency, and a severe attack on my personal space and right to a quiet and restful flight. PLEASE DO NOT ALLOW CELL PHONE USAGE ON AN AIRPLANE!! Thank you. Patricia Krohn
